

National Grid Electricity Group of the Electricity Supply Pension Scheme

BRIDGE THE GAP

An option to help you bridge the income gap until your State Pension starts

This option is only available to those who joined the Group as an active member from the National Grid UK Pension Scheme during 2022.

8 April 2024

What is this option?

This is the Bridge the Gap option. It is only available to members who joined the Group as an active member from the National Grid UK Pension Scheme (the Gas Scheme) during 2022, and who are taking their pension from the Group before State Pension Age. It doesn't apply if you are retiring early on the grounds of ill health.

What does Bridge the Gap involve?

Available at retirement, this option enables eligible members to receive a larger pension from the Group until they can start to claim their State Pension. They then receive a smaller pension from the Group afterwards. This is also known as the levelling option.

How is this option linked to the State Pension?

It is linked to the amount of the Basic State Pension received by people who reached their State Pension Age before 6 April 2016. The annual amount of this Basic State Pension as at April 2024 is £8,814.

A different State Pension system was introduced by the Government from 6 April 2016. The amount of State Pension you will get at State Pension Age will be based on this new system and will depend on your National Insurance contribution record.

You can check your State Pension online at: www.gov.uk/check-state-pension

This website will also tell you when you start to claim your State Pension.

Does this option affect other Group benefits?

No. Other Group benefits such as the retirement tax-free cash sum and the death benefits paid by the Group will be calculated in the same way, regardless of whether you take this option at retirement.

Is it possible to choose a different amount under this option?

Your Group retirement quotation letter will tell you the maximum amount that you can take under this option. You can choose a lesser amount, but not a larger one. You may want to choose a lower amount if you expect to receive a lower State Pension at your State Pension Age; or to avoid being affected by the Annual Allowance (see page 11 for more information about this).

Should I get financial advice?

This option will not be right or suitable for everyone, so a decision to take it should be made on a sound financial basis, and you should consider taking independent financial advice about this before deciding to go ahead. You should be aware, however, that a financial adviser will charge you for giving such advice. To find a suitable adviser in your area, please visit www.unbiased.co.uk

How does it work?

Here's an example. Alex retires at age 60, six years before his State Pension Age of 66. The maximum increase which Alex can have under this option is £6,285 a year up to his State Pension Age.

Alex's Group pension for life without exercising this option is: £11,000 a year

If Alex opts for the maximum allowed with this option, his Group pension increases to: £17,285 a year

From State Pension Age, Alex's Group pension is reduced by: £8,814 to: £8,471 a year

This is a permanent reduction for the rest of Alex's life.

Alex's increased pension (£17,285) and the amount of the reduction (£8,814) are both affected by any future Group increases.

Assuming his Group pension increases by 18% (3% per year) over the six years to Alex's State Pension Age, then his figures would be:

Group pension just before State Pension Age: £20,397 a year

Amount of reduction from State Pension Age: £10,401

Group pension from State Pension Age: £9,996 a year

Here is a summary:

	If Alex does not exercise this option	If Alex does exercise this option
Group Pension at age 60	£11,000 a year	£17,285 a year
Group Pension by age 66 (assuming increases of 18% over the six years to Alex's State Pension Age)	£12,980 a year	£20,397 a year
Reduction to Group Pension from Alex's State Pension Age of 66	£0 (no reduction applies)	£10,401 (for the rest of Alex's life)
Group Pension from Alex's State Pension Age	£12,980 a year	£9,996 a year

The State Pension will become payable to Alex at his State Pension Age. Whether his overall income (Group pension plus State Pension) goes up or down will depend on how much State Pension he receives, but he has used this option to smooth his overall income during his retirement.

What do I need to be aware of about this option?

- Under this option your Group pension is reduced at State Pension Age. Your total income from State Pension Age might go down under this option if:
  - your State Pension is lower than the reduction to your Group pension; or
  - you are by then already receiving some form of State benefit which you exchange for your State Pension.
- The reduction in your Group pension is for the rest of your life. It is therefore possible that you may 'give up' more total pension income after your State Pension Age than the extra pension income you receive before State Pension Age; this depends on how long you live.
- The increased pension payable under this option counts towards your Annual Allowance and Lifetime Allowance. There may be tax implications if you exceed either of these allowances, although the Lifetime Allowance position has been simplified following the spring 2023 Chancellor's budget.
- You should check whether receiving a higher income through taking this option could affect any entitlement you may have to other State benefits.
- Your Group pension will reduce with effect from your State Pension Age even though your State Pension may start on a different day. Your State Pension statement will confirm the date it will start.

A number of these points are explained further under the heading 'What risks should I be aware of?' Please see pages 9 to 11.

What else should I consider before taking this option?

Don't forget that if you take this option, you will receive a higher Group pension until you reach your State Pension Age. However, once you reach your State Pension Age, the pension payable to you from the Group will reduce for the rest of your life.

This option is designed to allow you to structure your pension – to receive extra income for a limited period – so helping you to meet your income requirements before you receive your State Pension. It can therefore help you to smooth your income before and after your State Pension Age.

Before exercising this option, consider your likely income needs before and after your State Pension Age. Think about your income requirements in the early years of retirement compared with what you will need later on in life.

For example, you may wish to take this option to give you a higher income in the early years of your retirement so you can fund some major expenditure, such as a big holiday or a house move.

But don't forget to also think about possible future financial commitments you might have later in your retirement, such as providing for your care if your health worsens.

When will I reach State Pension Age?

The following table gives a brief guide under current legislation:

Date of Birth	State Pension Age
Before 6 December 1953	65 for men, and between 60 and 65 for women
6 December 1953 – 5 October 1954	Between 65 and 66
6 October 1954 – 5 April 1960	66
6 April 1960 – 5 March 1961	Between 66 and 67
6 March 1961 – 5 April 1977	67*
6 April 1977 – 5 April 1978	Between 67 and 68*
On or after 6 April 1978	68

*The Government has indicated that it will continue to review the evidence and may bring forward the increase in the State Pension age to 68 in future.

What if I exercise this option and then the Government announces an increase to my State Pension Age?

The Government has said that it will carry out a review of State Pension Ages every five years, which could lead to further increases. If this does happen and you've exercised this option, then the reduction to your Group pension when you reach your State Pension Age will be more than was originally quoted to you. This is in order to reflect the extra period of time that the temporarily increased pension will have been paid. The adjustment will be calculated by the Group Actuary. If you take up the option, you will be deemed to have agreed to such an adjustment, should the circumstances arise.

What risks should I be aware of?

There are a number of risks associated with this option.

Changes to the Lifetime Allowance

The Lifetime Allowance (LTA) was a former tax limit placed on the value of benefits in registered pension schemes that individuals could accumulate in their lifetime without incurring tax charges. It was £1,073,100 for the 2023/24 tax year.

The Lifetime Allowance tax charge in respect of savings in excess of the Lifetime Allowance was removed from April 2023 (with the excess being taxed at the individual's marginal rate instead) and abolished from 6 April 2024. HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) has provided some clarification on how this will work and the industry is waiting for more guidance.

From 6 April 2024, the Lifetime Allowance was replaced by two new allowances:

- The Lump Sum Allowance (LSA)

A cumulative maximum limit of £268,275 (i.e. 25% of the 2023/24 LTA) on the tax-free part of the lump sum payable on retirement.

- The Lump Sum and Death Benefits Allowance (LSDBA)

A cumulative limit of £1,073,100 (i.e. the 2023/24 LTA) on the tax-free elements of lump sums that can be paid in life and death, to or in respect of an individual.

The legislation needed to implement these new allowances is still being finalised and therefore subject to change. This guide will be updated when more is known.

If you are considering taking your benefits, it is recommended that you read Railpen's leaflet, 'How the New Lump Sum Allowance Might Affect Your Retirement Options', which is provided with your retirement quote.

You should also take advice from an authorised financial adviser to understand what the new allowances mean for you. You can find an FCA-regulated adviser in your local area by visiting www.moneyhelper.org.uk/retirement-adviser-directory – please bear in mind you will need to pay for regulated advice.

Income tax

Your personal tax position could be affected. Increasing your Group pension under this option until you reach State Pension Age might mean you are subject to a higher rate of income tax.

Variation in total income

- This option can help you to bridge an income gap before your State Pension starts, but you should not necessarily expect your overall income to be the same just before, and just after, State Pension Age. Your income would only be the same if the reduction to your Group pension exactly matched your State Pension.
  - The amount of State Pension you receive depends on your National Insurance contribution record.
  - You should note that Group and State pensions increase at different rates.
  - Your State Pension Age may increase after you have taken this option due to Government reviews, which are expected to occur every five years. This would mean that the reduction applied at your later State Pension Age would need to be greater than was quoted to you at your retirement, as the reduction needs to reflect that the additional pension paid under this option will have been paid for longer than was originally expected.
- The State allows you to choose to defer receiving your State Pension to a later date than your State Pension Age.

You could give up more than you gain

- The additional pension is paid to you for a fixed period, up to your State Pension Age, whereas the reduction from your State Pension Age will continue for the rest of your life. This means it is possible (depending on how long you live) to end up 'paying back' more pension in total via the reduction than you gain through receiving the additional pension.
- The calculation of the reduction to apply after your State Pension Age is based on actuarial assumptions about life expectancy, and on your age at retirement, your gender and other relevant factors. Put simply, if you live longer than the actuarial assumption, you are likely to end up 'paying back' more pension in total than you gain. You can't change your mind later.
- The decision to take this option is irreversible.

Annual Allowance (AA)

- The temporary increase in Group pension counts as extra pension for the AA limit.
- The AA is one of the tax relief limits on pension savings and takes into account how much extra pension you build up and how much you pay in pension contributions in a 'pension input period', before becoming liable to tax. The maximum rate of AA allowed for the pension input period from 6 April 2024 to 5 April 2025 is £60,000.
- If you haven't used up all your AA in a pension input period, you can carry forward the unused allowance (for up to three years) to offset any amount by which you exceed it in the current pension input period*.
- To calculate the amount that counts towards the AA as a result of taking this option, the temporary increase to your Group pension needs to be multiplied by a factor of 16.
- In the earlier example of Alex, he took an additional temporary annual pension of £6,285 to bridge his income under this option; so multiplying this by 16 means that a value of £100,560 counts towards his AA.
- As a result, Alex will exceed the AA of £60,000 in the 2024/25 pension input period.
- However, Alex has only used £10,000 of his AA in the three previous pension input periods so he has plenty of 'carry forward' allowance to offset in 2024/25.
- This means he will not exceed the AA in 2024/25 and therefore won't incur an AA tax charge by taking this option.
- If you exceed the relevant AA in any pension input period, and you don't have sufficient carry forward allowance to offset this, you will be subject to an extra tax charge on the amount by which you have exceeded it.
- If you think you might exceed the AA by exercising this option, you should get in touch with Railpen (contact details are on the back cover) and consider talking to an independent financial adviser.

*The information about the AA pension input period is not relevant if you left service on or before 5 April 2006.
